How to protect students and staff in schools and nurseries

Students and staff should wash their hands with soap and running water for 40–60 seconds when hands are visibly dirty. If their hands are not visibly dirty they can use an alcohol-based hand rub or soap and water.

Educate students and staff on the importance of covering their mouth and nose with their upper sleeve or a disposable tissue when they sneeze or cough. Dispose of tissue properly in a closed bin.

Bathrooms, floors, tables, chairs and toys and other surfaces, such as door and window handles, should be regularly cleaned with disinfectant.

Keep classroom windows open, or at least during break times, even during cold weather, to ensure good ventilation.

Watch out for the main symptoms: fever, cough or difficulty breathing.

If a student suddenly develops symptoms, separate him/her from classmates and inform parents and a health care provider as soon as possible.

Make sure that students and staff with symptoms stay away from school.

Plan students' entry and exit to and from classrooms as much as possible to minimize unnecessary crowding.

Encourage students and staff not to hug or kiss when greeting, especially if the students show some symptoms.

Tell students and staff to avoid sharing items, such as cups and towels, and to avoid touching their eyes, nose or mouth with unwashed hands.
